to Harbin, there to await the Japanese armics.

My informant states that all of the heavy slege guns which have been reported as shipped for use in the Russian fortifications in Southern Manchurla during the last few weeks are in reality intended for service at Harbin. Nor is that all, Kronstadt and other first class fortresses are being denuded of their heaviest guns, which are being prepared for shipment to the Manchurlar border, there to be mounted at Harbin.

It is the hope of the Czar and his advisers that that place may be made impregnable and that the Japanese can be compelled to extend their lines over so much territory that they will exhaust themselves guarding their lines of communication.

Russian Cavalry Engage in Terrific Charge, in Which They Killed Two Hundred Japs.

Killed Two Hundred Japs.

(By Associated Press.)

LIAO YANG, Monday, May 20—(Delayed in transmission).—The Japanese lost two hundred killed and a number of horses in the fight at Vagenfuchu to-day. The Russians opened fire at 8 in the morning, and after two hours and a half long range firing the Japanese, under General Akklama, prepared to charge and crush the force which had been harassing them for twenty-one days. In the meantime General Samsonoff was approaching Vagenfuchu with a strong force of cavalry. It was a sight worth seeing when, at the word of command, the Russian squadrous formed and rushed like a whirlwind across the terribiy cut up country, clearing away all obstacles, the batteries at the same time trotting along the frightin roads. Having passed the railroad station, the troops came under the fire of the Japanese machine guns, but withdrew without suffering much loss.

The fourth and sixth companies of the Eighth Siberian Cossacke furfously obarged the Japanese cavalry with lances, attacking both flanks. In a few minutes they literally cut the whole/squadron into pieces. This was the first time lances were used, and they struck terror into the enemy. In some cases the lances pierced the riders through and wounded their horses. Some of the Japanese infantry, numbering four battallons of three hundred men to a company, and eight squadrons of cavalry attempted to advance, but the Russian hatteries opened and soon the slope up which the enemy was advancing was covered with black spots, and the enemy was forced to scatter and retire. Some of the Japanese cavalry were wonderfully dashing, charging with shouts upon the Russians, who met and scattered them.

A Cossack who had lost his lance and sword wrenched a sword from a Japanese officer and cut off the officer's head.

The Cossacks picked up boots which had been taken off by the Japanese in order to facilitate the flight and flourished them on their lances as trophies.

The Japanese used the Boer trick of displaying dummies, but the Cossacks did not waste a shot on them.

General Samsonoff highly praised the practice of the Russian gunners.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 1.—General Sakharoff has telegraphed as follows, under to-day's date, to the general staff:

"According to reports, the Japanese commander in the action of May 30, near Vafengow, had three battallions of infantry in reserve. Our losses were 17 men killed and 23 wounded, and Lieutenant Meyer and another officer, whose name has not been ascertained, wounded. The Japanese losses were very considerable. One squadron of the Thirteenth Japanese cavalry was annihilated in a hand to hand encounter, and another squadron which came to its assistance suffered great loss from the fire of our frontier guards and riflemen. We captured nineteen horses.

LONDON, June 1—Rumors of mediation in the Russo-Japanese war caused a rise of 1-2 per cent. in consols and a general upward tendency on the London market this afternoon, but the rumors have found no confirmation in diplomatic quarters.

The Foreign Office characterizes the report that mediation is pending in the Joel's St. Denis, third. Sight horses started. The race was run in two minutes and forty-five seconds. Stamant led all the way and won by three lengths. Another three lengths separated the second and third horses. Andover was fourth. Gouvernant, a French horse, owned by M. Blanc, and the favorvorite, was not placed. The victory of Stamant was exceedingly popular, especially as it was thought that Gouvernant was a certain winner. The scene when Mr. De Rothschild led in his horse was remarkable. King Edward, who was present, was among the first to congratulate his old friend, while cheers resounded all over the course.

A big contingent of Frenchmen was present and their disappointment was most keen, as they regarded Edmond Blanc's colt as certain to repeat Glediateur's performance. It is said that M. Blanc, who made his fortune out of the casino at Monta Carlo and paid a record price, $195,50, for Gouvernant. Skeets Martin, the American Jockey, was suspended until June 25th at Epsom to-day, He had the mount on Lady Honora the winner of the Caterham plate, and was disqualified for crossing and boring.

the day the criticism seems to have been un-just and too heaty. It was evidently a fine track.
